Disney's THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME

QUASIMODO

Locked away his entire life in the bell tower, sweet, innocent Quasimodo is the bell ringer of Notre Dame. His cruel guardian, Frollo has told Quasimodo that he is a monster that will never be accepted in the world outside. But his longing to be part of the life he sees below comes true when he meets Esmeralda.

ESMERALDA

Beautiful Esmeralda, the Gypsy woman, dances in the streets with her clever little pet goat, Djali. Besides her physical beauty and grace,

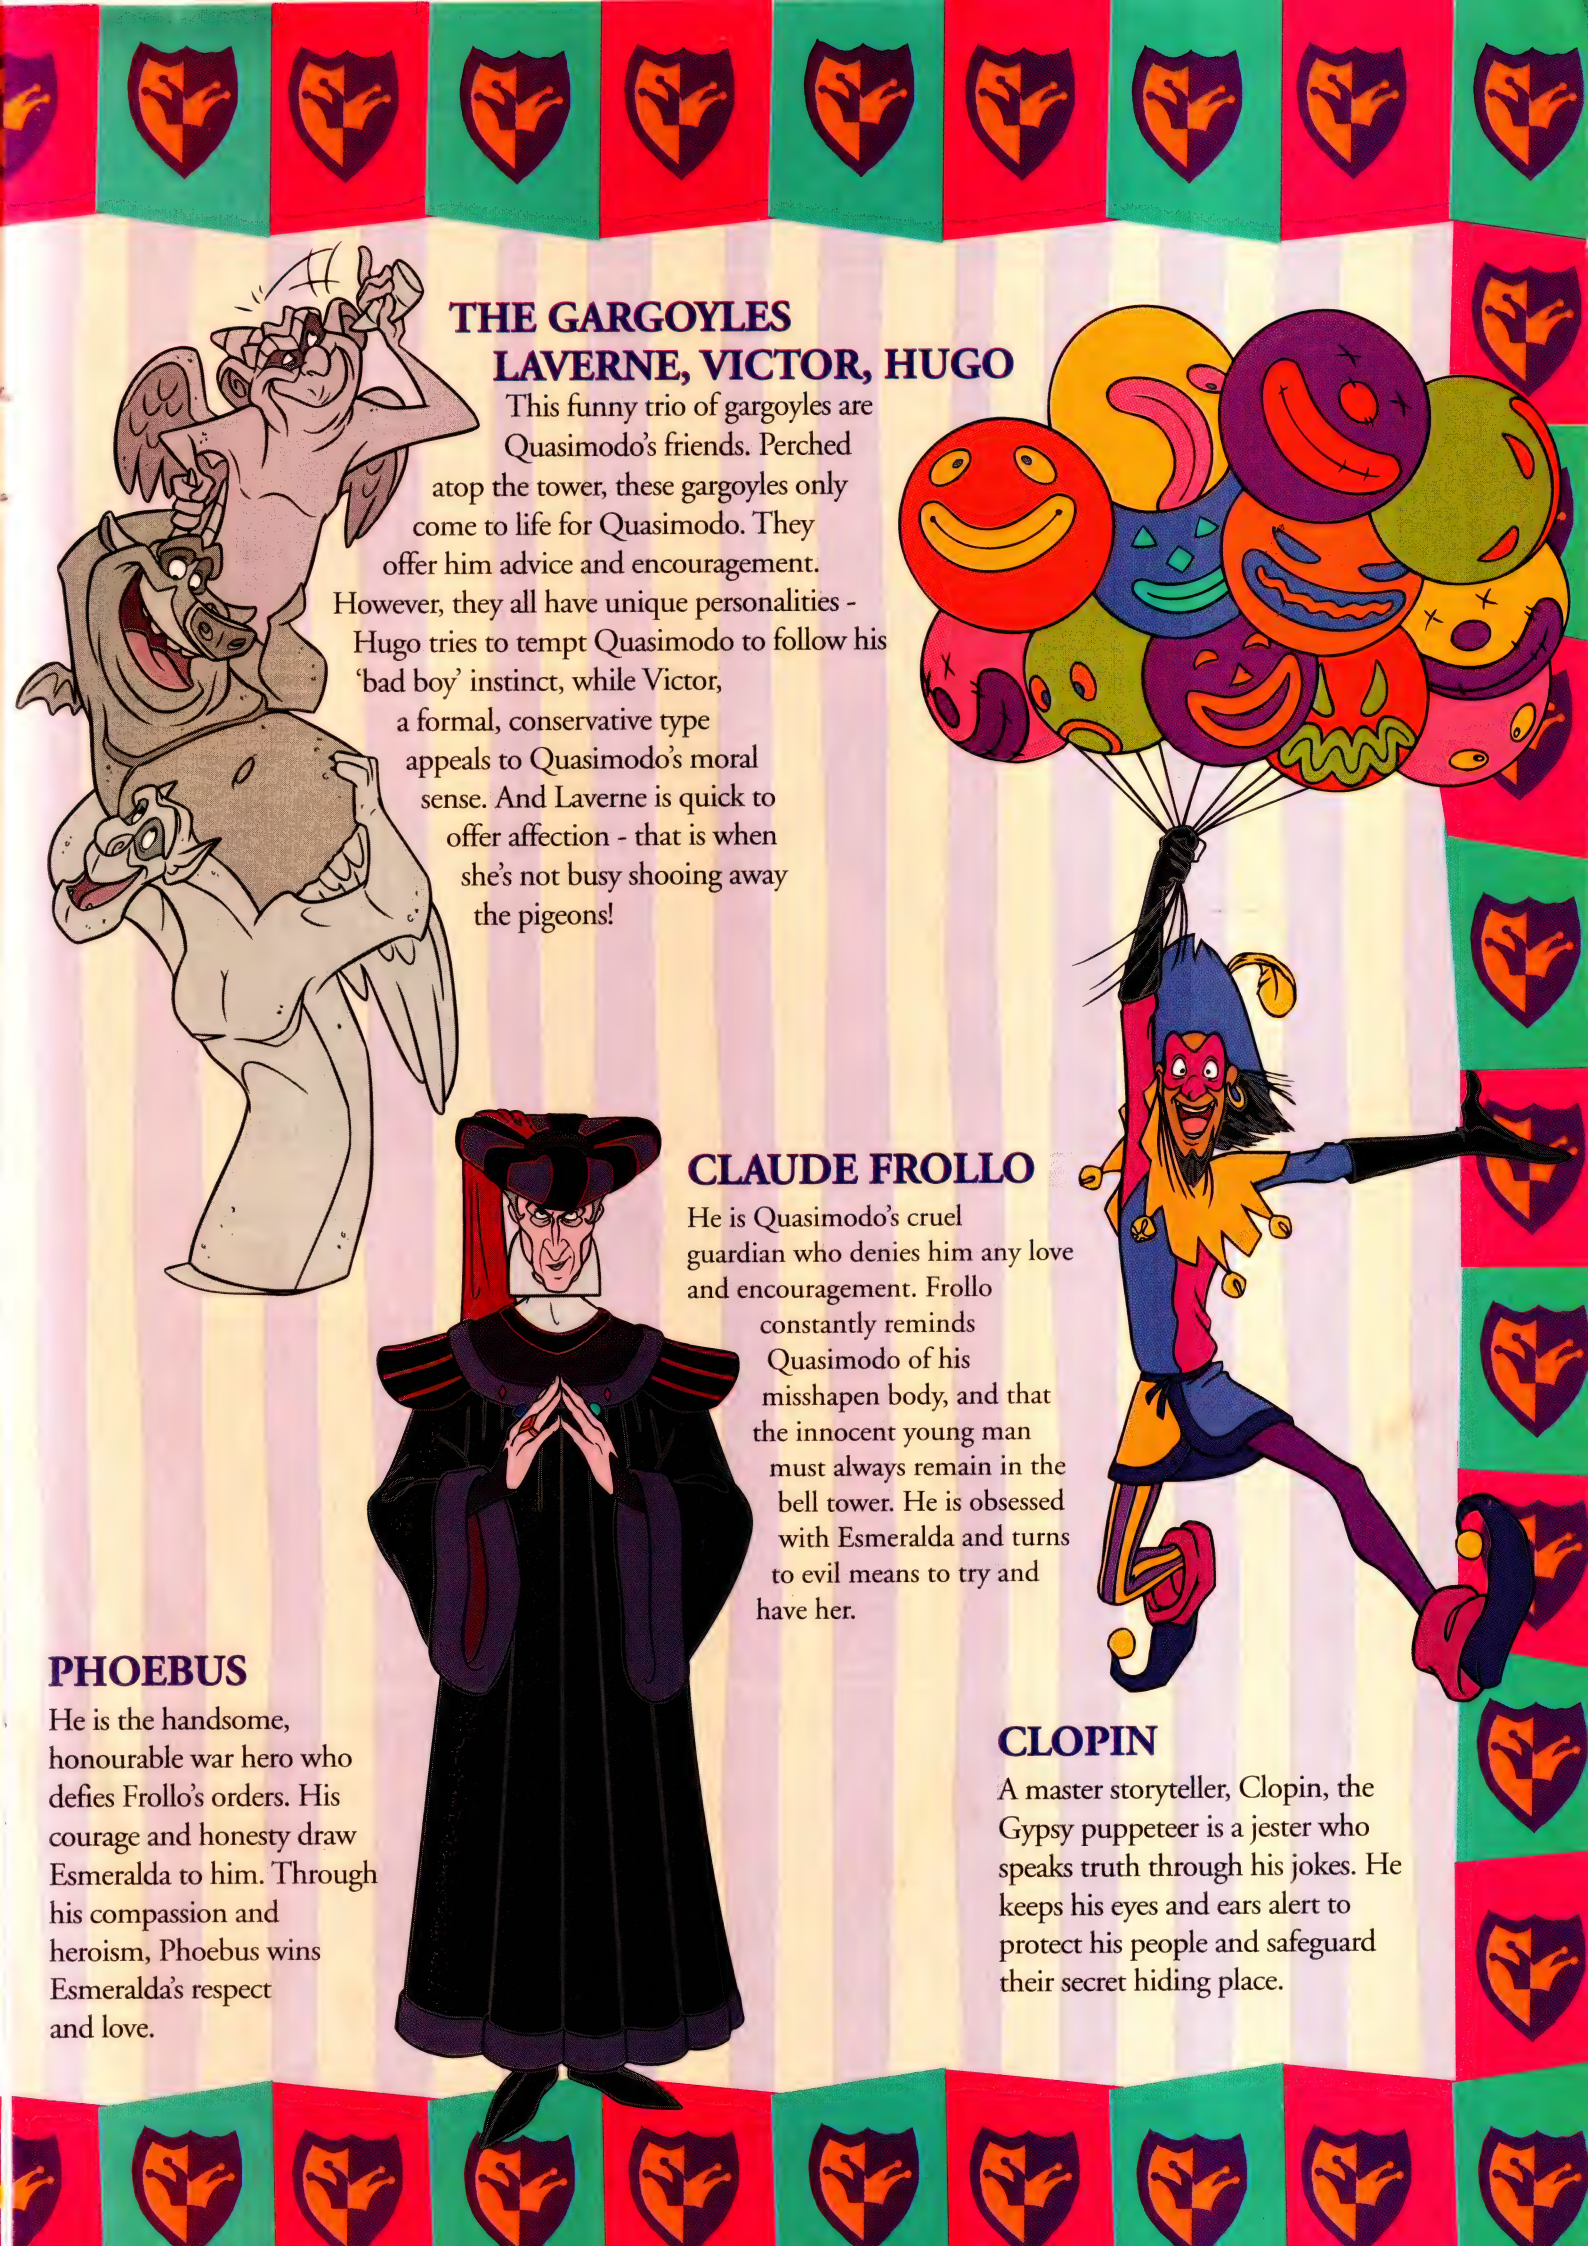

Esmeralda also possesses enormous courage. It is her compassion and understanding of life as an outsider that lead her to help Quasimodo.

DJALI

He is Esmeralda's mischievous dancing goat. Djali is loyal and protective, and acts like Esmeralda's 'watch goat'. She can always count on him to help her in times of trouble - unless he's getting into trouble himself!

THE GARGOYLES LAVERNE, VICTOR, HUGO

This funny trio of gargoyles are Quasimodo's friends. Perched atop the tower, these gargoyles only come to life for Quasimodo. They offer him advice and encouragement. However, they all have unique personalities - Hugo tries to tempt Quasimodo to follow his 'bad boy' instinct, while Victor, a formal, conservative type appeals to Quasimodo's moral sense. And Laverne is quick to offer affection - that is when she's not busy shooing away the pigeons!

CLAUDE FROLLO

He is Quasimodo's cruel guardian who denies him any love and encouragement. Frolo constantly reminds Quasimodo of his misshapen body, and that the innocent young man must always remain in the bell tower. He is obsessed with Esmeralda and turns to evil means to try and have her.

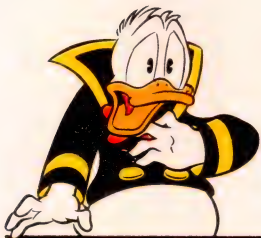

PHOEBUS

He is the handsome, honourable war hero who defies Frolo's orders. His courage and honesty draw Esmeralda to him. Through his compassion and heroism, Phoebus wins Esmeralda's respect and love.

CLOPIN

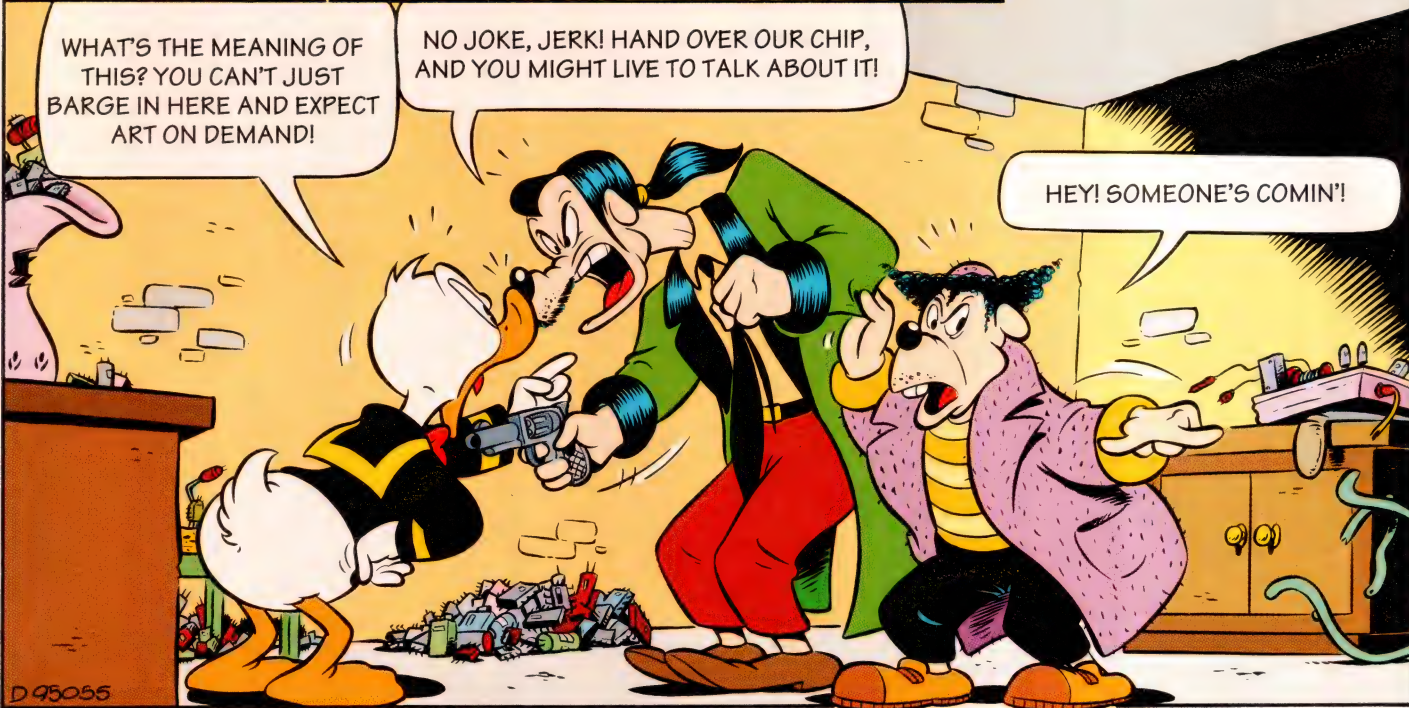

A master storyteller, Clopin, the Gypsy puppeteer is a jester who speaks truth through his jokes. He keeps his eyes and ears alert to protect his people and safeguard their secret hiding place.
